Families often face challenges in managing and tracking their daily, weekly, and monthly expenses effectively. Manual methods lead to errors, poor budgeting, and a lack of financial insights. The absence of a centralized system causes data to be scattered across notes and receipts, making it difficult to analyze spending patterns. To solve this, the “Calculating Family Expenses using ServiceNow” project provides an automated and centralized platform where all expenses can be recorded, categorized, and analyzed. With real-time dashboards, accurate calculations, and detailed reports, ServiceNow helps families maintain better control over their finances and make smarter budgeting decisions.
